

Rights Granted to AGS – Abstract Submission

I hereby agree to submit the Presentation Materials (collectively, the oral and written information are referred to as the “Presentation Materials”) to AGS for its review prior to the Meeting, and allow AGS to post them on the AGS website, print in the program book, or other forms of media deemed appropriate by the AGS for the purpose of providing information for meeting attendees prior to and after the annual meeting.

I have obtained any and all third-party permissions required for my use of the Presentation Materials and for the transfer of rights to AGS as set forth in the preceding sentence.

I hereby grant Ophthalmology and Ophthalmology Glaucoma the right of first refusal for the publication of original manuscripts from all papers or posters presented at the Meeting.

I hereby acknowledge that written material will be reproduced by AGS and made available to participants, members, and other industry professionals in print or online (including, but not limited to, published program materials, and archived programs on the AGS members only website). I hereby give my permission to AGS to reproduce any material I present at the Meeting.

Ophthalmology Glaucoma FAQs’

The American Glaucoma Society and the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Ophthalmology and Ophthalmology-Glaucoma journals have an agreement that gives Ophthalmology and Ophthalmology-Glaucoma the first right of refusal on manuscripts from accepted papers and posters at AGS Annual Meeting 2019.

Below are frequently asked questions about this policy.

The AGS Annual Meeting Program Committee gives greater priority to original work. If the research abstract is accepted by the AGS for the annual meeting, before publishing elsewhere, the material must be released by Ophthalmology and Ophthalmology-Glaucoma. Review of the material can be submitted informally or formally to the Journal editors before or immediately upon acceptance of the abstract for the AGS Meeting. See below for further explanation:

Status	Submit to AGS?	Explanation
Already published or accepted manuscript by a journal other	NO	Violates AGS submission policy.

than Ophthalmology (O) or Ophthalmology-Glaucoma (O-G), and not previously rejected by O or O-G

Submitted for publication and authors do not know status. Not previously released (rejected) by O or O-G.

NO

If another journal accepts material, Ophthalmology could never have first right of refusal. Authors will not be able to follow submission policy.

Abstract has been submitted to Ophthalmology or Ophthalmology-Glaucoma for review.

YES

Submission to Ophthalmology can occur at any time. Authors do not need to be notified of the status before submitting to the AGS Program committee.

Authors intend to submit to Ophthalmology or O-G.

YES

Abstract may be submitted for review by Program Committee.

Intend to submit to other journals, not Ophthalmology or Ophthalmology-Glaucoma.

YES, but...

If the abstract is accepted by the AGS Program Committee, the authors must wait for notification from the O or O-G editors whether they will accept or reject the abstract or manuscript for publication. Ophthalmology and/or O-G must be given first right of refusal.

Abstract has been accepted by Ophthalmology or Ophthalmology-Glaucoma.

YES

Yes, AGS policy allows.

Rejected by Ophthalmology and Ophthalmology-Glaucoma, authors are submitting to other journals.

YES

YES, Ophthalmology and O-G have already been given the first right of refusal.

Published in another journal after a rejection from Ophthalmology and Ophthalmology-Glaucoma.

YES

YES, Ophthalmology and O-G have already been given the first right of refusal.
